Housing and Building

In the masterplan for Offenbach, the city of Offenbach has – together with the Offenbach citizens – defined the topic of „housing“ as a central field of action. The city continuously improves the living and housing in the town districts and has designated large municipal areas for housing development.

The city of Offenbach moreover helps with many concerns relating to the topic of housing. Are you planning to purchase or restore a private home or an apartment? already been taken, properties are being constructed rapidly and many tenants have already moved in.

Offenbach is growing and needs more housing space for its citizens. Construction is currently permitted in the new building areas, North Bieber and East Bürgel, with other building areas to be made ready for development in the coming years. The districts of Bieber and Bürgel are popular residential and living areas. Both districts are distinctive for their historical, protected centres, and they have attractive green spaces and offer appealing recreational activities, and come with good local public transport links. Living near the big city but still surrounded by nature – the new building areas make it happen. The aim is to create a balanced mix of rented and owner-occupied apartments. The plans also include single-family homes (terraced, semi-detached and detached houses). The majority of plots are in private ownership, but there are still a few building sites, especially for multi-storey apartment blocks, which the property management department can allocate to potential developers. The building development office [Baubüro] is the first point of contact for new home builders seeking advice, where site and development plans can be viewed and explained, and official planning and building information is issued on specific construction projects planned by developers.

Environmental questions regarding all building matters

Greenery is an asset worth protecting, particularly in a major town. Therefore, trees and shrubs may not simply be removed if they are in the way of a building project. The city's Department for Environment, Energy and Climate Protection is happy to provide you with help and advice regarding environmental questions. This includes questions about green roofs and walls. Also, if there are bats around or birds that brood in buildings, this department must be consulted regarding protection of the animals before you start any building work. The department will be able to advise you if you want to drill a well or set up a water tank on your plot as well. This applies to questions about flood protection, areas liable to flooding and groundwater drainage for construction work, too.

Museums

The Klingspor Museum houses one of the most important collections and exhibitions of international 20th/21st-century book art and calligraphy. It covers the themes typography, calligraphy, illustration, children's book, book binding, art books, calendars and posters.

At House of Municipal History [Haus der Stadtgeschichte], 10,000 years of history are brought to life. The museum designed by the Offenbach Design Academy shows the city's development from the Isenburg Residency via a manufacturing and factory location to the present-day service centre. The House of Municipal History is also home to the town archives [Stadtarchiv].

The German Leather Museum [Deutsches Ledermuseum] is the world's only institution which exclusively collects and presents everything relating to leather and any related materials. To the present date, more than 30,000 objects from all cultures and eras were collected. The museum was founded in 1917 as a model collection for the training of young designers, craftsmen and leather goods manufacturers.

The Kickers-Fan-Museum is a treasure trove in the history of the Offenbach football club Kickers, established in 1901, which is kept alive with passion and care. Free admission to the club's history is classified chronologically: a collection of streamers, flags and tricots, photographs and trophies from the German supra-regional league and Bundesliga well worth seeing.

Stadion am Bieberer Berg

The Stadium belongs to the Events area of the Offenbach Municipal Utilities Corporation. It is the home ground of OFC, Offenbacher Fußball-Club Kickers, and can seat 20,500 spectators. Excursions

In Offenbach there are many ways of getting into the countryside, and they are rarely far away. The Grünring from the Main to the Main links beautifully tended parks and green spaces around the city centre and along the Main embankment. The Hesse Cider and Meadow Orchard Trail is a special combination of nature and culinary delights. Along the route of industrial culture, many stations recall, above all, the flourishing leather goods industry in Offenbach. The forest route is an informative nature trail with references to archaeological sites.

Guided tours

If you want to discover Offenbach and its surrounding areas via an expert guide, you are spoiled for choice. These include daily sightseeing excursions in the region as well as themed city tours. Into the countryside

In Offenbach, Büsingpark and Lilipark offer an opportunity to relax and recharge your batteries. The asphalt paths of the Main bank are great for cycling, jogging or skating. At the Isenburg Castle, the Main Bank Park provides an area for games or sports or a rest on the river bank. Offenbach's People's Garden is the Leonhard-Eißnert-Park at Bieberer Berg with its wonderful water features. The historic Rumpfenheimer Schlosspark is landscaped as an English garden. Dreieichpark in Offenbach's Westend is home to the amazing remains of the princely trade show from 1879, Germany's oldest concrete structure without steel reinforcement.

Getting around by bike

Saddle up: By taking the bike, you are helping to improve air quality in Offenbach, as well as reducing noise and carbon dioxide emissions on the roads. This is one reason the municipal authority is investing in its cycling infrastructure. With the Bike Offenbach project, nine kilometres of cycle highways will be built by the end of 2021, giving cyclists quick and safe routes through the city and the surrounding area. By taking part in the national city biking campaign "Stadtradeln", you can encourage others to cycle too and highlight the need for more climate protection.

The Cycling Map is available at the citizens' office, the tourist information, OF InfoCenter and RMV Mobility Center. For route planning we recommend the "Radroutenplaner Hessen" (↳ www.radroutenplaner.hessen.de) which the city of Offenbach actively participates in. For further information please contact the Department for Environment, Energy and Climate Protection.

Fun Forest AbenteuerPark

If you are athletic and like outdoor climbing high up, you will love the FunForest Abenteuer-Kletterpark (located in the Leonhard-Eißnert-Park). Stretched over a large area, 160 trees are connected by cable ropes and catwalks at heights between five and fifteen metres. One of the sixteen different courses is especially designed for children over three years.

Getting around – Mobility in Offenbach

Many important European traffic arteries cross in the Rhine-Main area. The International Airport, the ICE hub Frankfurt or the financial district can be reached in less than half an hour by tube with four different underground lines or by car via the expressway. The six S-Bahn (tube) stations and more than 280 bus stops guarantee quick connections within the city and to the region. Parking space for 4,000 cars is available around the city. Car-sharing and rental bikes complete the services offered.

RMV-Mobilitätszentrale, Salzgäßchen 1,
Tel. 069/840004-800

Public transport

Offenbach and the region have an excellent public transport system. The Mobility department of the Offenbach Municipal Utilities Corporation is your main contact for all questions in terms of public transport. It takes care of your connections with regional trains, commuter lines and regional bus transport. The Mobility-Team gives personal advice at the RMV-Mobilitätszentrale, located at the commuter train station Markt- platz.

At the RMV-Mobilitätszentrale, you can buy tickets, have your own personal travel route drawn up, find out about car-sharing and the rental bike system or receive suggestions for trips into the surrounding areas. Information, timetables and prices also available at Tel. 069/840004-800, E-Mail: mobilitaetszentrale@nio-of.de or online at <http://mobilitaet.soh-of.de>

Bus transport

The modern low-floor buses run on nine lines and stop at around 280 mostly barrier-free stops in the city. This is how you can stay comfortable, inexpensive and environmentally friendly in Offenbach. The fleet is constantly being renewed and brought up to the highest emissions standard. Some electric buses are already on the way for you.

Tip: A road map for climate protection! Learn more about our modern, environment-friendly bus fleet at <http://mobilitaet.soh-of.de>

Many towns – one region – one tariff system

The City of Offenbach is a member of the Rhein-Main-Verkehrsverbund (regional public transport system). You therefore benefit from a uniform tariff system and harmonized departure times. Your destination in the area can be reached fast and conveniently by underground, tram and bus.

More information on the Rhein-Main-Verkehrsverbund online at www.rmv.de

Buying tickets and timetable information

You can purchase your ticket at one of ten service points throughout the city or directly from the bus driver. Or you can order your season ticket from the convenience of your home at www.rmv.de. Tickets can also be purchased via mobile phone. Are you a frequent user of public transport? Use the attractive RMV annual tickets. Late-risers will benefit from the 9 o'clock version.

More information at
↳ http://mobilitaet.soh-of.de

Tip: Find the current list of all service points online at ↳ http://mobilitaet.soh-of.de

Travelling by car and public transport

You can combine Mobility services with other means of transport. For example, with an annual RMV ticket you can take advantage of reduced offers from the local partnering car sharing or car-rental company. Moreover parking is available for all Park & Ride users at the metropolitan commuter train stops in Offenbach.

Tip: Information on the car-sharing programme is available via the internet at ↳ http://mobilitaet.soh-of.de

Travelling by bicycle and public transport

You like cycling? With Bike & Ride you can take your bike on the bus, provided there is room. No bike with you? Simply use the Call-a-bike service or the eBike and eAuto sharing service provided by eMobil Rhein-Main.

Tip: It's even easier to travel about the city with our eBike and eAuto sharing service provided by eMobil RheinMain. There are six eMobil stations dotted around the metropolitan area. Simply book using the app, online at www.emobil-rheinmain.de, or direct on-site, and off you go. The first 30 minutes of every trip taken with a pedelec are free of charge. RMV (regional transport company) annual ticket holders receive a 10% discount on every journey.

Travelling by rail

Besides the regional express trains to Fulda, Würzburg and Frankfurt some IC-connections will make a stop at the main station in Offenbach. The underground lines S1, S2, S8 and S9 will take you directly from six different underground stations to the main stations in Frankfurt, Hanau, Wiesbaden or Mainz.

"Die Bahn" (German Federal Railway) online at www.bahn.de

Long-distance train tickets can be purchased from the machines in the entrance hall at the main train station or at the desk at Marktplatz S-Bahn Station.

Central parking

There is plenty of parking available downtown in car parks and underground parking. Parking is possible close to the banks of the Main river and only 300 metres away from the city centre.

Each of these has a district management department [Quartiersmanagement] responsible for the affairs of the district, and which serves as the first point of contact for members of the public, businesses and other active individuals based in the district. Relevant matters may include questions about district development or ideas and requests in connection with improving life and the day-to-day existence in the district. The space provided by the district office is readily used by a wide range of advice services and groups for holding their meetings.
